Beliefs About the Rainbow. In many countries the rainbow is apoken of as being a great bent pump or siphon tube, drawing water from the earth by mechanical means. In parts of Russia, in the Don country, and also in Moscow and vicinity it is known by a name which is equivalent to "the bent water pipe." In nearly all the Slavonic dialects it is known by terms signifying "the cloud siphon, and in Hungary it is "the pump,"
"Noah's pump" and "God's pump,"
The Malayan natives call it by the same name that they do their banded water cobra (necheta), only that they add "bobo" (meaning double headed), the equivalent in our language being the "double headed watersnake." They tell you that the bow is a real thing of life, that it drinks with its two mouths and that the water is transferred to the clouds through an opening in the upper side of the center of the great arch.

In the province of Charkoy, Russia, the rainbow is said to drain the wells, and to prevent this many are provided with heavy, tight fitting stone plat-forms. In the province of Saratoy the ow is said to be under control of three angels, one of whom pumps the water, the second "feeds" the clouds and the third sends the rain.

Man, Weman and Love.
In one of his books Max O'Rell, the witty Frenchman, gives the following

"If you are bald, never make love to a woman taller than you. Looked at from below, you are all right. "Never let your ladylove see you without a collar; no-not even the very wife of your bosom. A man's head without a collar is like a bouquet without a holder.

"Never marry a woman richer than you, one taller than you, or one older than you. Be always gently superior to your wife in fortune, in size and in age, so that in every possible way she may appeal to you for help or protec-tion, either through your purse, your strength or your experience in life. Marry her at an age that will always enable you to play with her all the different characteristic parts of a husband-a chum, a lover, an adviser, a protector and just a tiny suspicion of Storles of London Weather.

The Manchester Guardian tells a good story of the weather. The scene was a Strand omnibus. A leaden sky was overhead, the rain poured down uncompromisingly, mud was under foot. A red capped Parsee, who had been sitting near the dripping driver, got down as the conductor came up. "What sort o' chap is that?" asked the driver. "Don't yer know that?" answered the conductor. "Why, that's one o' them Indians that worship the sun!" "Worships the sun?" said the shivering driver. "I suppose 'e's come over 'ere to 'ave a rest!"

This recalls the reply given on one occasion by an castern potentate to Queen Victoria, who asked him whether his people did not worship the sun. "Yes, your majesty," said the oriental, "and if you saw him you would worship him also."

A Most Wonderful Fent. William Lyon, a London actor of the latter part of the eighteenth century, once offered to wager that he could repeat every word in a Daily Advertiser at the next morning's rehearsal. Accordingly, the next morning his opponent ridiculed him for bragging upon his feats of memory. Lyon forthwith banded the paper to a Judge agreed upon, and, notwithstanding the want of connection between the news items, editorials, stories and word of the entire paper from beginning to end without the least hesitation or mistake.

Wifely Appreciation. "There's one thing I will say about Charley," said young Mrs. Torkins; "he has a lovely disposition even if he doesn't always display it at home."

"How do you know?" "I heard some of his Wall street friends talking about him. They say he is a perfect lamb."-Washington Star.

When a razor refuses to take an edge, the barber stops fussing with it, lays it away, and in a little while, no one knows just how, the edge returns If we treated our brains and our bodjes that way instead of wearing them out on the grindstone, it would be a good deal more sensible.

An Impression.

"Now, I have an impression in my head," said the teacher. "Can any of you tell me what an impression is?" "Yes'm, I can," replied a little fellow at the foot of the class. "An impres-sion is a dent in a soft spot."

Painfully Honest.

Prude-Well, why did you refuse him after you had taken him away from the girl he was engaged to? Flirt-Ob, I haven't quite reached the point when I will receive stolen goods.

Among the Du Ponts themselves there is a process of selection for those who are to have to do with the powder works. a very strict one. The family always has a head, and what this head or nas a head, and what tals head or chief says the other members of the family do. This headship does not necessarily descend from father to son, even when there are sons. Sometimes it goes from uncle to nephew, the main reput leags to source a. Du. Americans Abroad.

The mere fact of an American citizen taking a trip abroad or residing there for a short period does not deprive a native born citizen of this country of native born citizen of this country of his citizenship, nor does he lose the right to the protection of this government by so doing. If he abandons his residence here, he loses his right to vote just as if he moved to another to the residence here. The support of the residence here to see the residence here. state, but acquires it again by return-ing to this country. Nearly all the na-tions on the globe claim the right of authority over native born citizens of their own countries even after those citizens have acquired citizenship elsewhere—that is, if a native Russian comes here and is naturalized, then re-turns to Russia for a visit, the Russian government might compel him to do army service despite his American citizenship. This principle was embodied in the famous expression "once an Englishman, always an Englishman," so much quoted during the war of 1812 .-Detroit Free Press.

The Coroner and the Bottle. The following little scene at an in-quest upon the body of a murdered man is reported by a correspondent of the Anglo-Russian from Astrakhan: The coroner dictating to his clerk: "On the table was found a bottle— No; stop for a moment. We must ascertain its contents." The coroner, tasting the liquid, dictates: "The bottle contained English gin. Perhaps not; I am not sure; taste it yourself." The clerk, having done so, replies, "I think it is simply strong vodka." The coroner, tossing off another glass: "No, really. advertisements, he repeated every It tastes like gin." The clerk, tasting the liquor again, "I still think it is only vodka.

The bottle having gradually become empty, the coroner proceeded to dictate in a decisive tone: "Write: An empty bottle was found on the table, and all measures taken to ascertain what it contained were of no use."

A Ruskin Thought.

To be content in utter darkness and ignorance is indeed unmanly, and therefore we think that to love and find knowledge must be always right. Yet wherever pride has any share in the work even knowledge and light may be ill pursued. Knowledge is good, and light is good, yet man perished in seek-ing knowledge, and the moths perish in seeking light, and if we who are crushed before the moth will not accept such mystery as is needful to us we shall perish in like manner. None but the proud will mourn over this, for we may always know more if we choose by working on, but the pleasure is, I think, to humble people, in knowing that the journey is endless, the treasure inexhaustible.-Ruskin.

A Young LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamber-lain's Colic, Cholera and Diar-rhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician, of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I BI had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack years of age, who had a very too attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had be-come so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colie, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonder-ful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inide of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely For sale by Richard Gibson,
